

MORGAN SAYS THERE WILL BE NO STRIKE

Receives Committee of Business Men from Coal Regions.

WOULD AVERT TROUBLE BUT WILL HOLD NO PUBLIC CONFERENCE WITH LEADERS.

New York, March 27.—A delegation composed of five men, representing trade interests in the Pennsylvania anthracite coal regions, headed by the Rev. Edward S. Phillips, acting as chairman, held a conference today with J. P. Morgan in the private office of Mr. Morgan in this city. The conditions of unrest in the anthracite coal region at present were set forth in the briefest possible form by Father Phillips, who presented the delegation to Mr. Morgan, and whom Mr. Morgan expressed his interest in their errand and his willingness to make personal effort to prevent a strike, though he declined to hold a public conference with the labor leaders.

The delegation who met Mr. Morgan today comprised the Rev. E. S. Phillips, from Hazleton; Edward Lauterbach, treasurer, and A. T. McAlister, secretary, of the Hazleton board of trade; and J. H. Serby, president, and J. W. Marston, secretary, of the manufacturers' committee of the Pittsburg board of trade.

Arrangements for this meeting were made last week by the officials of the various boards of trade of the coal region of Pennsylvania, through the Rev. Father Phillips, who is chairman. Father Phillips made a brief presentation, saying that the delegation was there merely trying to bring about action that would prevent a strike. The men were ready to act as an intermediary body or to be used in any way that would compromise any difficulties existing.

Will Not Meet Mitchell. Father Phillips asked Mr. Morgan if he would meet John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers' association, who has been in New York for several days. Mr. Morgan, in reply, said in substance that his attitude up to the present has been toward the prevention of a strike. He said he was much interested in the mission of the delegation and assured them that they could rely upon him to do all within his power to prevent any action that would paralyze business.

He remarked, however, that he was disinclined to hold a public conference with the labor leaders, indicating as a reason for this action the belief that should a public meeting between himself and the labor leaders be held, the publicity thereof and possibly attendant conclusions might hamper the achievement of the best ends which all were seeking. In other words, as Mr. Morgan remarked, should he hold a public meeting or conference, "half of New York would be in a state of heat."

Mr. Morgan added that the ends sought could best be achieved through other channels, and he assured the delegation that he might communicate with the boards of trade later. "You may rest assured that I believe there will be no strike," remarked Mr. Morgan.

MEETING OF MINERS. Call Issued by President Mitchell for Friday at Wilkesbarre.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., March 27.—A call has been issued by President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America, for a meeting to be held in this city on Friday morning at 10 o'clock of the presidents and one of the executive boards of the three Pennsylvania anthracite districts. President Mitchell and three members of the national executive board will be in attendance.

A meeting of the national executive committee has been called to meet at Indianapolis to be held at the same hour as the meeting here. Action taken on President Mitchell's report here will at once be taken at Indianapolis, and it is reported, he promptly ratified by the national board.

Even of the twenty members of the national executive committee, who are now in and will gather at Indianapolis, National Committee member Fred Diller and Organizer Chris Evans, who are members, left Scranton last night for Indianapolis.

LECTURE BY CLEVELAND. Talks to Princeton Students on the Venezuelan Boundary Dispute.

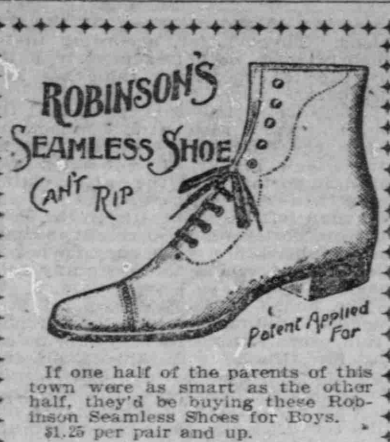

Princeton, N. J., March 27.—Ex-President Cleveland delivered the first of his two lectures on the "Venezuelan Boundary Dispute" before the students and friends of Princeton university to-night in Alexander hall. Professor Woodrow Wilson introduced the speaker. As Mr. Cleveland arose to begin his lecture he was greeted with three cheers from the student body. He was strongly applauded several times while delivering the lecture.

Mr. Cleveland at the outset spoke of the vagueness of the subject of the boundary lines in the establishment both of the Venezuelan republic and of British Guiana. He said that from the first there was evident need of "extraneous assistance" before boundaries so loosely named could be "exactly fixed."

He then referred to the initiation of the dispute in 1841 between the Venezuelan minister of Great Britain, and Lord Aberdeen, chief secretary of state for foreign affairs. The making of the Schomburgk survey and its bearing upon the dispute were fully explained.

The lecturer, quoting constantly from documents, introduced the repeated appeals of Venezuela to Great Britain in favor of settling the question by arbitration on the whole subject, declaring that their constitution prevented them from making grants of territory except by a process the result of arbitration.

Meantime England consistently refused arbitration on the general subject, declaring that it feared the Venezuelan constitution would still be used as a pretext for disobedience to an award. Great Britain also objected to the arbitration requested by Venezuela, fearing that the award might be made in favor of the Venezuelan claim, in which case "an important territory which has for a long period been inhabited and occupied by her majesty's subjects and treated as part of the colony of Robinson Bros. Co., Shoe Builders, 124 Main Street.

British Guiana would be severed from the queen's dominions.

On this Mr. Cleveland said: "England alone had treated it as part of British Guiana; her immense power had enabled her to do this and her own decrees seemed to promise greater advantages as against her weak adversary than arbitration could possibly assure."

The British government at one time offered a plan of arbitration which did not cover the entire disputed territory, but never consented to arbitration such as proposed by Venezuela and which would include the entire territory in dispute.

The lecture tonight brought down with it a trail of narrative to September, 1893.

LOSSES BY FLOODS.

Overflows Do Much Damage in Michigan Towns.

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 27.—Grand river is stationary tonight and a further rise is not looked for unless heavy rain should follow the cool wave. The river is thirteen feet six inches above normal. All manufacturing plants along the river front are closed. The basements being flooded and in some instances many residents have had to vacate residences on the west side of the river by reason of high water. The river above and below the city in many places is nearly two miles wide, flooding a large area of farm lands.

A dispatch from Niles states the St. Joseph river is on a rampage and the dam at that place is likely to go out before morning. Lowell is flooded and in darkness tonight, the lighting plant there being shut down by reason of the dam being torn away. At Ionia portions of the city are still inundated. Late this afternoon two dams on the Grand river and one on the Saginaw river, all of which were built by the Michigan Power company, were threatened with destruction by the high water.

DR. SCHULTZ ON A RAMPAGE

DENTIST'S BRIEF PERIOD OF HIGH JINKS.

Threatened His Wife Smashed the Furniture and Was Landed in Jail.

A dentist on a drunken rampage created some lively excitement over the Commercial section of Second street last night by smashing up the furniture and making threats against his frightened wife, whom he was chasing about the place with a club. It is said, until the police arrived on the scene and took him to custody. As a result of his high jinks, the dentist, who gave his name as E. L. Schultz, sustained a cut on the wrist that necessitated the attention of a physician, and he is now behind the bars of the city jail on a charge of destroying property.

The cut is the result of a blow that demolished the glass pane of the door of the upstairs apartment. The apartment is used as a rooming house and the dentist and his wife, who are strangers here, have been stopping at the place for some time. Last night Schultz came home in a befuddled condition and became infuriated at something his wife did. He charged that he threatened to kill her, picking up a stick and flourishing it in the air.

The frightened wife fled to another room and barricaded it by pushing the door against the door. Schultz broke through the door and upset the bed, and then he turned on his wife. The woman then ran into the room of Mrs. N. Pratt, the wife of the proprietor of the Commercial section, and hid. Schultz and smashed his fist through it, sustaining a severe cut on his wrist from the glass.

At that juncture Officer Johnson arrived on the scene and took the dentist into custody. He was promptly taken to police station and Dr. King was called to dress the wound, which was found to be not serious. In default of $25 Schultz was left in jail.

MOUNTAIN STATES TELL THE STORY OF A BLOWN-UP

How Arapahoe Brown Was Slain in Wyoming.

HIS BODY WAS BURNED

TWO MEN MAKE TERRIBLE CONFESSION AT BUFFALO.

(Special Correspondence.)

Buffalo, Wyo., March 27.—Sheriff Kennedy has secured a confession from Charles E. Hollibaugh and Eric Buntin, the latter an 18-year-old boy, who were arrested two weeks ago charged with the murder of Arapahoe Brown, the wealthy cattleman, who disappeared from Buffalo early in January and whose partially burned body was found in the ashes of a bonfire in a gulch on Powder river above Arapahoe.

Brown left Buffalo on Jan. 21 to go to the ranch of Hollibaugh on Powder river to look after a bunch of horses he was running on shares with Hollibaugh. As he did not return when expected, a searching party went to the ranch to look him up. About this time Hollibaugh and Buntin came to Buffalo and sold some horses that belonged to Brown. A watch carried by Brown was also in their possession. Suspecting that the men had something to do with Brown's disappearance the officers placed them in jail. The posse found evidences of a murder at the ranch house and in the gulch they found the body of Brown. Sunday night Buntin confessed to the crime, and yesterday Hollibaugh also admitted his guilt. The story of the crime, as told by the two men, would cast in the shade some of the leading dime novels of the day. Young Buntin's story of the murder is about as follows:

"We decided to kill Brown away back in October, and began to lay our plans accordingly. We had a rifle, a 40-70, which we hid in the stable for the purpose. Brown came to the ranch late on Tuesday, the 22nd of January, and went into the house to get ready for bed. He took off his clothes and sat down on the edge of the bunk with his back to the window, talking with Hollibaugh and looking through a machinery catalogue with him. I fired a shot through the window and Hollibaugh fired another from the inside of the house. Hollibaugh ran out of the house and joined me, and together we went to the woods and stayed there three hours. After that time we heard Brown halloo, 'Oh, boys!'

Then Burned the Body. "When we returned to the house we found that Brown had blown out the light after he was shot, as we found blood stains on the table and lamp. He had then laid down on the bed with his rifle alongside. Hollibaugh told me to go to the stable and hitch up a horse, which he did. We then went to the house and tied a rope to Brown's feet and dragged him to the bonfire in the gulch and cast the body and clothing into the flames. We had been burning Brown down a couple of days before he came, and the fire was made for the purpose of getting rid of the body. We gathered more wood and kept the fire burning all night and supposed that the body had been entirely consumed."

The location of the cabin in the lonely spot on the Powder river was an ideal one for the commission of the awful crime. To the east of the house, and about ten feet from it, is a root cellar. On entering this nothing was visible, except that the floor was made of boards and was covered with dirt so as to give it the appearance of being a ground floor. In the corner was a door which opened into the floor of the house. It being covered over with dirt so as to give it the appearance of being a ground floor. In the corner was a door which opened into the floor of the house. It being covered over with dirt so as to give it the appearance of being a ground floor.

It has since been learned that it was the intention of the two murderers to use some companions; who have not yet been located, to conduct an illicit still and a counterfeiting den under the house, but failing to obtain the necessary machinery the men never came to actual work. Many letters and green goods men were found in the den and the evidence pointed to the criminals intended to do business on a large scale.

The fact is also being brought to light that Brown was implicated with the murderers in their proposed illegal transactions, he having furnished sums of money at different times with which to construct stills and foundations for the counterfeiting machinery.

At the coroner's inquest, Dr. Allen testified that portions of the remains of the body found in the gulch were those of Brown and that the fire was that of Brown and that the confessions of the men are true.

Under the law the murderers are punishable by hanging, and as few of the men are likely to pay the penalty of their crime on the gallows.

RESULT OF THE BLIZZARD.

Thousands of Dead Cattle, Sheep and Horses Strew Plains.

Denver, March 27.—Thousands of dead cattle, sheep and horses strew the plains of western Nebraska and eastern Colorado as a result of the blizzard. Into hundreds of small ravines and dry beds of creeks the animals, crawled to be covered with drifting snow, while other countless numbers struggled against the blizzard to reach shelter, but perished on the ridges.

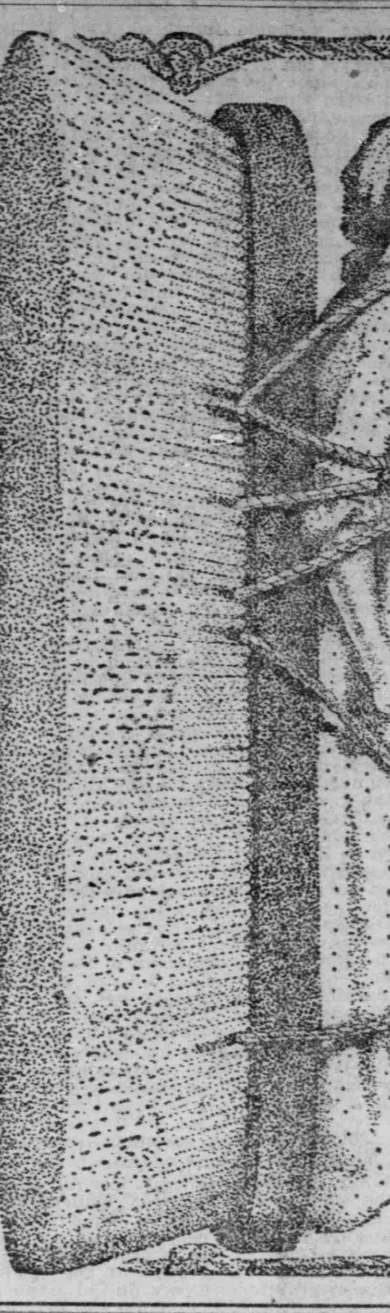

Coming passengers over the Burlington and Union Pacific say that in every little gulch are seen the carcasses of animals and that the bodies are scattered over the plains in every direction.

CAR TAX LAW.

New Measure Will Increase the State's Revenues.

About $5,000 is the estimated revenue to the state treasury under the operation of the new car tax law passed by the recent session of the legislature. Under the provisions of this act the collection of the car taxes in the state is taken from the county assessors and placed in the hands of the secretary of the state board of equalization. The new law has already begun to send out blanks to the various railroad companies and other car owners, who are required to file their returns with the secretary of the state board of equalization.

"If all the car taxes due in the state had been collected last year," said Mr. Thomas yesterday, "they would have aggregated about $3,500. Under the provision of the new law the receipts ought to be $5,000. The tax applies only to the cars not owned by the railroad companies, but to all other cars, including taxicabs, refrigerator cars and others of this nature that are in the state."

The board will not assess the railroad, telegraph and telephone companies until the third Monday in May, the time fixed by the law. The board will start this week on a tour of the state to get into closer touch with the various local conditions and the work of the county assessors.

The counties to be visited have been divided into two groups. The first group, consisting of Lincoln, Washington, Kane, Grand, San Juan, Uintah, Wasatch and Summit counties, will be visited first.
